Most pet-owners I know like the idea of dog sports and dog shows, but it costs too much, or the registration doesn't seem worth it, so they don't bother going. Something easy that has minimal rules for the average person to try out, but still mimics another sport or showing event, would probably be pretty popular, if it were advertised well. (responsible pet ownership days, for example, have a few minor events and are popular with pet people as well)
